

Give your home more space!

The empty spaces beneath a raised deck are often overlooked. With InsideOut's patented composite ceiling panels the space under your home's deck instantly transforms into liveable and useable space. No more exposed nails, dirty rafters, and water hazards.

InsideOut ceiling panels channel the water away from the home, keeping the area below the deck dry and enjoyable for outdoor living. Our specially designed ceiling panels and carrier system have been designed to withstand the heaviest rain and the harshest winters.

InsideOut's color palette includes 5 laminated woodgrain finishes & 7 painted finishes.

Each color and finish was chosen for its unique species, grain or color to create an outdoor living space that reflects and expresses your individual personality.
